

Educational Outreach Division

Step out of your office and into your boardroom. It's that easy to access one of Stewart Title's professional development seminars.

The success of our Lecture Series and other educational seminars has led us to develop a more comprehensive series of continuing education programs on both title insurance and real estate in general.

Our Educational Outreach Division offers programs to new lawyers and law clerks, experienced lawyers and law clerks, as well as to students at universities and colleges. These programs are designed to enhance the understanding of title insurance coverage and provide valuable information related to the practice of real estate law.

As with our Lecture Series, lawyer programs qualify for Continuing Professional Development (CPD) credits and all programs are provided free of charge. You have the option to attend a seminar in a group setting or book a private session to be held for your staff at your office. A complimentary breakfast is included for the group sessions.

We are pleased to offer a range of topics covered by our program, such as:

- An overview of a real estate transaction from receiving the Agreement of Purchase and Sale to reporting to the client and lender
- Ethical and legal issues
- Recent cases that impact on the Agreement of Purchase and Sale
- Preliminary retainer letters to clients
- How to review a survey
- Power of Attorney and identification issues
- Requisitions and answering requisitions
- Title searching issues and the use of title insurance
- Mortgage issues
- Fraud mitigation
- Emerging trends

We are proud that all seminars offered via our Educational Outreach Division are delivered by dedicated and experienced professionals.
